Trash trick shot

As much as I love watching DJ play golf, he has to be one of the most annoying players to listen to in an interview. Maybe that's why I find a post like this so funny! View this post on Instagram A post shared by Golf Digest (@golfdigest) I didn't expect to wake and seen DJ and Paulina lip syncing to some Nelly but I'm glad I did. But sometimes, when you practice enough, he does—and that puts you in the Trick Shot Hall of Fame. Some of these videos are so cool and so unlikely that you have to wonder if they have been tampered with (I'm talking to you, Sidney Crosby). Most likely, though, they weren't, and these guys and girls are just unique and frighteningly talented. Here's a look at some of the coolest trick shooting videos out there. Carl Lloyd's Soccer Trick Shot Reel1 of 20Carl Lloyd is a good person to have on your team when you are, say, trying to win the gold medal at the Olympics. She scored the goal of the 2008 U.S. victory in Beijing and helped the women's team win gold once again in London last summer. But she also has some unique shooting skills that are good for impressing the crowds —and her teammates—during practice, even though they might not do anything for her at game time. Bleacher Report found Lloyd before the Olympics last summer to watch her show off her roll of trick shot. When you can make the water bottle explode with the force of your shot, you know you're doing something right. 2012 Olympics-Themed Trick Shots2 of 20Dude Perfect virtually owns the online dedicated to spectacular trick shooting videos, and this is no exception. This summer, they orchestrated a special edition of the Olympics of tricks to help count the days until the Games begin in London. Here, we have a one of Olympic-themed tricks —complete with cameos like cyclist Giddeon Massie and gymnast Joshua Dixon—to help get national pride percolating in London.Make sure you take the basketball cross-gymnastics shot at the 1:50 minute mark - is a highlight. The Trick Shots3 of the 20Gonzaga men's basketball team couldn't just sit back and watch the rest of the world make amazing trick-shooting videos; these guys had to get into the magic. And if you can go through the brequite and embarrassing introduction of the superhero to the video, the tricks are really awesome. From shots from behind and over the basket, to shots made from inside a garbage barrel, to an attempt by Johnny Manziel from the top floor of the arena, these guys prove they have skills. I hope that someday, soon, these skills will start paying in March Madness. Wayne Gretzky Jams the Garage Door with a Puck4 from 20Wayne Gretzky is tired of seeing aspiring internet sensations trying to make names for themselves online with lame tricks. So here, we have the master himself showing the scrubs exactly how it's done. In 2011, the hockey legend teamed up with College Humor to make an unparalleled trick shot video in which he lifts a disc in the flower pot in front of his door, prevents his garage door from closing, marrying a disc under it at the last second and throws a disc from the wall to move an ottoman under his feet. Now that's how it's done—complete with the necessary trash talk. The 2000 Leatherooms5's compilation of tennis tricks from 2000 also want to get into the fun —and these guys are awesome. A few weeks ago, Hamburg made befa sensations the Courrooms released their first compilation of the year, filled with crazy photos with tennis theme. These guys can throw a tennis ball in a public dumpster and get out of the other. They can take water bottles from their partners' heads with a ball. They can throw the ball in a trash can while assembling a turntable that will make you dizzy just by looking at it. These guys may not be winning Wimbledon anytime soon, but there's something to be said for their accuracy. Phil Mickelson demonstrates his shot6 trick of 20Phil Mickelson wants you to be able to get into the trick shot fun, too. So here, he offers a hilariously serious instructional video in which he demonstrates his own favorite trick. The PGA legend spends a lot of time practicing his chipping, and he doesn't always have time to get his own balls. That's why you owe two chip balls two at the same time instead of one. Mickelson shows how to take two balls out of a sand trap and into the green, then make one of them roll back to you in the trap so you don't have to waste time retrieving one. What a cool guy.9-Year-Old's Mini 1-on-1 Trick Shot7 from 20A few years ago, the Boston Bruins ran a 1-on-1 Mini series during at home in which young hockey players would take the ice in in to show off your skills in front of the crowds at TD Garden. But once this kid showed up, the fans weren't too interested in seeing the pros go back to the ice. This future nine-year-old NHL star dazzled the crowd and absolutely taught his opponent with a back stroke that left the goalie's head spinning. If Jack Edwards had been in the cockpit for this one, he definitely would have lost his mind like he did during the Rangers game. Olympic Table Tennis Trick Shots8 from tennis 20Table may not have received as much attention in London last summer as gymnastics or basketball, but these tricks put some of the others in shame. Bleacher Report joined forces with U.S. Olympic members Erica Wu and Lily Zhang before this summer's Games in London to get a first-hand view of the best tricks that can be done with a racket. From knocking down an entire tower of Solo cups with a ping pong ball to hitting balls in each of the cups without losing, beer pong style, these girls know how to impress with their skills. Shea Weber hits the 3179 Section 3179 net from 20nashville Predators defenseman Shea Weber may not have the utmost confidence in his shooting skills, but maybe he should. Weber was in Section 317 of his stadium - which is tall, just for reference - and attempted a shot down the ice and into the net. When the puck left the bat, it didn't look like it was coming in, but what do you know? It was a goal. From the looks of it, how many records were on the ice when the winner finally anchored, weber may have taken a while to get the hang of this trick, but hey - practice makes it perfect. Frisbee vs. Basketball Trick Shots10 from 20We've seen some golf, hockey, ping pong, football, tennis and basketball shots - but what about the frisbee? That's why frisbees aficionado Dude Perfect Brodie Smith is there. Given how limited my frisbee skills are, I thought these are some of the group's most impressive tricks. Smith, the extraordinarily resident frisbee, tried to mimic the basketball tricks of the Dude Perfect team with a frisbee instead of a basketball, succeeding with flying colors in most cases. And the tricks seem much more impressive with a lightweight puck than with a basketball. Baby Titus's Basketball Trick Shots11 of 20Titus the Toddler has been on the news a bit lately because of its highlight reel. Some are even calling him the (very) favorite for the NBA draft. The two-year-old boy has melted hearts and blown minds around the world with his basketball skills, all captured on camera and posted online. Titus can do more than make a basket, which would be good enough for most babies. He can make a basket from anywhere. From the ladder, from the couch, behind the back, over the head, behind the backboard — he can do anything. Titus is clearly a legend in construction. Care Geoff Swain's Perfect Drive12 20Geoff Swain may not be as well known as Phil Mickelson, but he is around the world in some circles for being the world champion of Golf Trick Shot. And that's why. As impressive as it is to play golf out there in the freezing cold while wearing slippers, that's not what makes this reel so spectacular. First, there's him bouncing the ball at the club, all while explaining what he's about to do —and given my hand-talking coordination, that's super impressive to me—but then there's the shot itself. After bouncing the ball in the face of an iron, Swain switches to a driver while the ball is in the air and sends it straight to the fairway —and breaks his head in the process. That's power. The longest basketball shot in the world13 of 20 We've seen hockey pucks, footballs and frisbees hurt from the highest points of the stadiums in hoops waiting far below — but this is the infamous shot that started it all. Cory Cotton, of Dude Perfect, was on the top floor of Texas A&M Aggies football stadium in 2009 and tried to make history by sinking what he professes to be the greatest basketball player in the world. The shot would be replicated several times after that, but this is where it started. Cotton sent a basketball from the top deck of the stadium toward a waiting hoop on the side of the football field —and he probably did. So what if he used the backboard? That, here, is greatness. Kyle Singler's Duke Reel14 of 20There are many people out there who love to hate Duke basketball, but it's hard to hate it. Well, kind of hard. You can probably take advantage of this as long as you ignore him saying, This is Kyle Singler and I approved this message at first. The former Blue Devil and current Detroit Piston presented us with this roll of tricks in 2010, showing their ability to sink a shot from anywhere. He's a big fan of the direct pitching and watching-it-ground-on-the-bee, but he can really sink it from anywhere. The bleachers, the weight room, the bench... and there's even a tribute photo to Mrs. K. Morgan Beck's 15-of-20 Volleyball TrickNow that it's volleyball time. Professional volleyball player Morgan Beck joined Dude Perfect and Bleacher Report this summer during the Olympics to showcase her best moves. She can send a piece back over the net and into a trash can. She and Olympic skier Bode Miller can single-handedly study the entire Dude Perfect team (and cause some serious bodily harm to the Dudes in the process). It took a few tries, but she can rip a cone out of one of Cara's heads. And of course, she can serve a volleyball in a basketball hoop because no perfect dude effort would be complete without it. Sidney Crosby's Trick Shot Reel16 of 20 has a lot of skepticism out there about whether or not this is legit, but it looks pretty good to me. We know Sid the Kid is one of the fiercest competitors in the NHL, but apparently, he's also one of the fiercest spreaders out there, too. Crosby's shots can move an NHL goal off the line —which doesn't seem too strange, though commentators disagree. But what they're really skeptical about is their ability to stand in almost ice center and fire shot after shot and knock down a pyramid of discs, one by one, off the wall. And when a deflected puck rolls along the wall, Crosby picks up the moving one, too, yes, totally real. As Mike Milbury says, I still believe in Santa Claus, too. Minor Leaguer Padres shows 17 of 20 At this point, we've seen virtually all sorts of tricks except baseball tricks. Now it's time. Here, Connor Powers of the San Diego Padres shows off for a while during batting practice. He can knock off a tee and into a garbage can. He can hit a ball on a pole and have it deflect back to the cameraman behind the plate, although it is unclear whether that was intentional or not. It can knock down the ball machine with its sheer speed. Maybe that's enough to get him off the ball from Single A. Alex Tanney Challenges Johnny Mac18 of 20Now, we're in the heavyweights. There are some quarterbacks out there who have perfected the art of tricks so much that it's pretty much the only thing they're known for. Here, we have Monmouth College quarterback Alex Tanney trying to join this elite group. Tanney is definitely good. He can wait in the top of a house story and throw the ball at a receiver on a truck's bed—while it's moving. He can stand on top of the library, play on the Jumbatron and hit the goal post. Your skills are impressive, but are they johnny mac level? Not yet. Johnny Manziel Recreates the 19th longest shot of 2019 this year, Johnny Manziel stayed in the same place as Cory Cotton attempted the biggest basketball pitch and tried to replicate it - with a football. The Texas A&M quarterback and 2012 Heisman Trophy winner is not afraid of anything—no pressure, no likelihood (or lack thereof) of one of the masters of the trick shot. And that's how he made this dream scene come true. With Cotton by his side, Johnny Football sent the pigskin straight to the basketball basket waiting on the field. As if there was some way Manziel could turn into yet another legend. The original Trick Shot QB20 of 20Beout he became the Trick Shot Quarterback, Johnny McEntee was just a quarterback flying under the radar at UConn. Johnny Mac is a legend. The original trick shooting quarterback made a name for himself, trying and achieving the impossible - hitting the back of someone's pool stick with the ball and thus helping him sink the ball into the corner pocket, pausing on the upper deck of the training ground and hitting a trash can in the 40-yard line , opening the door to the field with the ball. May the legend of Johnny Mac never be broken. Broken.
